Gourmet Gift Ideas for Dad

Whether it's Father's Day or his birthday, there are dads for whom the same old tie simply won't do. There are dads for whom the mallard themed gift bag just isn't enough. There are actually even dads who aren't interested in golf tees, clubs, or some green time. If your dad is one of the millions who demand a higher standard of gift, you may want to look to the gourmet world for a bit of help. These ideas can help get you started.

Barbeque Sauces – Barbeque sauces aren't always a simple swipe off the supermarket shelf. There are many who take this art form quite seriously, and if your dad's time spent in front of the charcoal perfumed air is more than just blackening some chicken he happened to find in the freezer, looking into the many gourmet barbeque sauces available is a must this gift-giving occasion. Two Fat Guys has an entire line you may want to consider that involves everything from Lava Hot to Smoky flavors. Maker's Mark, the same company that brings you that smooth bourbon, also has a sauce on the market. You may also want to look into the world famous Charlie Vergo's Rendezvous line of sauces, too.

Coffee – Coffee may be something that he grabs on his way to work in the morning, even if he's a foodie, but you can make it a bit more interesting to brew it at home, too. You may want to invest in a bit of coffee technology to get him started, like a Gevalia or French Press machine. If you don't want to go that far, though, or he already has a coffee maker he really likes, you could consider gourmet coffee choices including choices from Volcanica Coffee, top rated by Food and Wine Magazine, or Dean & DeLuca. There are also a variety of gourmet coffee gift baskets available at retailers across the internet.

Spice Rubs – Ribs, salmon, chicken, and almost anything else you can grill could use a solid spice rub to enhance the flavor. Good spice rubs, though, aren't just a matter of throwing this and that together. They take time, testing, and the best quality spices at the outset, and many gourmet rubs provide just that. Look to Two Snooty Chefs, Buck Nakeds, or many of today's top chefs for great blends that will enhance almost any dish.

Steaks – Grabbing the first steak out of the case at your local grocery store may seem like a tasty idea, but with a bit of research, you can actually get something better for Dad this year. Omaha Steaks has been the name to know for years in this category, but there are several others that are proving to be worth the extra money. Chicago Steak Company has some fantastic steak deals as well as high quality offerings. Allen Brothers also offers great options you may want to consider.

Gourmet Gift Baskets – If you know you want to go gourmet, but you're not sure what to consider, you may want to go with a gift basket instead. Gift baskets allow you to include a variety of different products to suit Dad's tastes. A grill basket, for example, could include gourmet steaks, spice rubs, and a few grill tools, too. A coffee basket could not only include Dad's favorite coffee, but also biscotti, a great travel mug, and maybe even a gift card to his favorite on-the-go coffee stop.

Gourmet dads may seem tough to buy for, but there are many ways to get the ideal gift for him without the hassle.

Social Media Posts

Pricing: Social media may be fairly easy to master, but finding the time to do it is difficult at best. Let us handle all of your profiles for you. If you already have profiles set up, we'll be happy to manage three of them each month for just $80. If you've yet to get your feet wet in the social media ocean these days, we can set up and maintain your profiles, too, for an additional fee.

TENNIS SCHOOL HELPS KIDS GROW THANKS TO CREATIVE INSTRUCTION

School of Tennis Gives Kids Opportunity to Excel With Fall Tennis League

- Pride. Confidence. Respect. Responsibility. They're all values almost every parent wants to instill in their children, and School of Tennis is ready to help with their Fall Junior Team Tennis League. Offering youngsters in a variety of skill levels the chance to learn and compete in a sport that has so much to teach, School of Tennis is currently holding sign-ups for this memorable experience.
Real Tennis, Serious Fun
Complex rules help define the sport of tennis, but the Fall Junior Team Tennis League is hardly about a list of do's and don'ts. Instead, School of Tennis works to help your child develop the techniques and skills needed to keep the ball in play again and again, and in the process, your child has the chance to learn more about this game that means so much to players around the world.
"Kids don't enjoy playing sports because they care about winning," said "Kids love to pick up new sports like tennis because of the fun factor. They actually like doing something they're good at and improving their skills at something new, so we spend quite a bit of time focusing on the fundamentals of the game in creative ways."
The Court of Life
While there's little doubt working with School of Tennis will teach your child more about the game no matter what current skill level he or she has, there's more to learning this exciting sport than understanding footwork, racquet handling, and scoring. Unlike many other sports, tennis has some takeaways others can't touch.
Physically, students gain a level of endurance and coordination that carries over to other sports and daily activities. Mentally, though, they learn about self-discipline, integrity, and honesty in a very different classroom.
Tennis Excellence in Your Backyard Every Weekend
No matter where you're at in the Area, School of Tennis has a weekend league nearby that's easy to reach.
 On Saturdays, students can participate in at the High School tennis courts from 12pm to 1:30pm, and in, students are welcome at the San Mateo High School tennis courts from 4pm – 5:30pm. On Sundays, students can play in from 1:30pm – 3pm, in at the Tennis Courts from 12pm – 1:30pm, and in from 4pm to 5:30pm.
This innovative league starts September 30 and runs until November 4, but space is limited, so if you want School of Tennis to help your child get excited about stealing that next set, sign up today.
